Anna's Book Fynn

Six-year-old Anna was found wandering in London's docklands one grey day in the 1930s and was taken home to Fynn's mum to be cared for. She lived there until her premature death, filling their lives with light and her amazing talks with "Mister God". Anna kept special things in a shoebox, including her own writings about everything that took her interest. Here, in her own uncorrected spelling, are her thoughts on God, a tree, Fynn and her idealized but lost mother.
